

The role people want, from motives and from how much agency they grant a place

Standardised estimates. Orange paths lower the wish for mastery, blue paths raise it; grey are loadings. Place agency: higher = the place is granted more independence and influence.

WLSMV, n = 2,489, ordinal indicators. Country dummies are in the model but not drawn (none differs significantly from Canada). The place–agency latent correlates .36 with restorative, .36 with dialogic and –.28 with serviced.

Place agency is the personal counterpart of the role item, so its path is partly the same construct measured twice; the motive paths shift once it is included. Source: 18_place_relationship.R
